SUMMARY

Ostrov Army Barracks NW is located immediately west-northwest of Ostrov, on the north bank of the Velikaya River. The Ostrov Railroad Station Yards and Shops [REDACTED] [REDACTED] adjoin its east perimeter. North and west of the installation is open country formerly used for field training and weapons-firing ranges (Figure 1).

The installation covers approximately 1,100 acres and includes administration, barracks, and support buildings, maintenance and storage facilities, an explosives storage area, and 3 areas of unidentified activity (Figures 2 and 3).

The area was covered by [REDACTED] KEYHOLE missions from [REDACTED]. Comparative analysis indicates that former airborne occupancy has been terminated and field training and range facilities have been abandoned. Undetermined activity apparent on [REDACTED] photography may indicate conversion of a portion of the installation to civilian use. A limited garrison-type military operation with minimum training is indicated by a lack of identifiable military training facilities or equipment.

DESCRIPTION OF INSTALLATION
